Under the Sea

The waves whisper onto the beach telling the tale of life
The one of many tears, much love and happiness
Below the surface dolphins dance to the melody of the currents
Fish dart in and out of the corals
Orcas sing the song of their name to the stars
Gulls ride the shoulder of the swell
In the sea there is always play
Anything to chase, catch, toss, and taste
Life that lasts forever ends so soon
They live for today while we humans live for tomorrow
The ocean is their home surrounding, swallowing and cleansing them
